Bernard Baruch, the late U. S. government advisor on economics, gave this advice on how to play the stock market:

"If you are ready and able to give up everything else, and will study the market and every stock listed there as carefully as a medical student studies anatomy, and will glue your nose to the ticker tape at the opening of every day of the year and never take it off till night; if you can do all that, and in addition have the cool nerve of a gambler, the sixth sense of a clairvoyant and the courage of a lion -- you have a Chinaman's chance." --- Texas Lookout

Now for the editorial side of newspapers . . . .

We hope this community thinks big on the need for tennis courts. It is a school and community need. In a sense, it is a social need. It is definitely an athletic and recreational need.

The expertise is abundant to teach the game from grade schoolers to the aspiring college and tournament player.

Now the facilities . . . .

It is one of the few games useful to people in their 60s. It is one of the few which allows outlet for the power hitter, the athlete and the social minded.

It used to be classed along with croquet as a game for the few. I can remember in high school days how the football boys thought it was a "sissy" game. If there is anyone around here, the bigger the better, who thinks that today, come by and we'll exchange a few volleys.

This town eliminated tennis down to the three Yoe Courts, now modified with basketball goals on one of those. Cameron Country Club had a clay court which gave way to a swimming pool. I've heard discussion of private courts in Cameron back in the 20s, which long since have disappeared.

That was 50 years ago. And tennis is booming even more than the days when Bill Tilden introduced power tennis to national and Davis Cup competition.

We not only ask restoration of what once was a popular game in Cameron, but we are asking for the additional courts to meet the demands, not the needs of at least 100 tennis players. About 30 are taking a second series of lessons the remainder of the summer after a four-week series from women of the Cameron Women's Tennis Association.

If popularity is the key to public action on a public need, it is there, quite public, quite frequent, and until recent years, quite ignored.

Ag Comm Okays Loan Bill

WASHINGTON

The House Committee on Agriculture has approved by a 28 to 2 vote an emergency loan bill designed to bring swift relief to farmers and stockmen who have been hard hit financially by sharp declines in livestock and poultry prices.

The legislation was introduced by Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage, D-Tex. A majority of other Committee members, including Rep. William C. Wampler, R - Va., ranking minority member, joined Poage as cosponsors.

"There is an urgent need for this legislation" said Chairman Poage, "and I hope it can be passed before the July 4th recess begins.

"Without the help provided by the bill a lot of farmers and stockmen will be driven out of business and the American consumer will be the ultimate loser because of decreased production."

Under the bill the government guarantees 80 percent of loans negotiated between borrowers and private lending institutions. Borrowers must be unable to obtain such credit without such a guarantee in order to qualify for participation in the program.

Maximum amount of individual loans authorized to be guaranteed under the legislation is $350,000, with total amount of such guarantees not to exceed $2 billion. The life of the authorization is one year, with the Secretary of Agriculture being given the authority to extend the period an additional six months. The time limit on the individual loan guarantees is placed at three years, with authority for a two year extension. Those eligible for participation in the guarantee program include those directly engaged in agricultural operations, including production of cattle, hogs, sheep and goats and poultry, and dairying. However, it does not include producers of livestock products.

The legislation is similar to a bill already passed by the Senate, Principal points of difference include the fact that the Senate version fixes no maximum amount of loans to be guaranteed, sets guarantees at 90 percent of loans, provides for seven year loans with up to five year extension, and makes producers of livestock products also eligible.

City Hires Works Supt.

Dase has been employed by Alcoa Works in Rockdale. He is a graduate engineer, completing his degree in civil engineering at New Mexico University. He holds a master's from the University of Texas . He is a resident of Cameron.

Council accepted councilman Hickman's resignation with regret.

Mayor Blake said he would have a recommendation to fill the unexpired term of one year.

Council heard a request from a group of ladies for paving North Milam between Sixth and Eighth Streets, just north of City Park.

Council also discussed survey work scheduled for North Harding St. between East Tenth and East 18th Streets and local financing for three property owners on a North Houston Ave. paving project between East 15th and East 18th Sts.

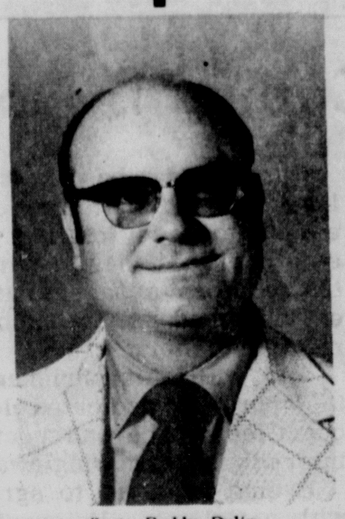
Routein reports included department statements on maintenance in police, fire, street, water and sewer departments.

Dase begins work July 16, officials said. He was among four applicants for the post, vacated by former Works Supt. Jim Hale a few weeks ago.

Other applicants included former Works Sup. J. B. Earle, of Rockdale, and two others.

Council also heard a request for consideration of construction of some city tennis courts. Frank Luecke of Cameron, appeared before the council.

Mayor Gene Blake said a program should be budgeted for courts within a city parks system.



Supt. Buddy Dulin

Dulin Assumes Duties In CISD

Supt. Buddy R. Dulin, formerly Albany school superintendent, has assumed duties as superintendent of Cameron Independent School District.

Dulin succeeds D. R. Dodson, who retired.

He and his wife, Elizabeth, have moved into the school superintendent's home at 702 East Seventh St.

Dulin, 42, holds a master's degree from McMurray College, and 37 hours in administrative work at the doctoral level at Abilene Christian College. He also earned a bachelor's degree at McMurray.

He was superintendent of Albany Schools for seven years, and junior high principal for two years. He taught mathematics and coached in junior high there for 12 years. He was in the Albany schools for 21 years.

Albany High School was air conditioned last year, elementary building in 1967. Other new or improved facilities in his tenure included a band hall, cinder track, four tennis courts, junior high dressing rooms, athletic field house, band building, new parking areas and sidewalks.

He was president of Albany Lions Club, chairman of United Fund drives two years, American Heritage project, West Texas Schools two years, UIL district chairman three years, TASA Region XIV vice president and president, among other professional and civic activities.

He is graduate of Colorado City High School as salutatorian. At McMurray, he was a member of Alpha Chi, national honor society.

Speaker Views Space Problems For Lions Club

James Poindexter, public relations spokesman for the Johnson Space Center, Houston, reviewed the problems of space travel in a speech before the Afternoon Lions Club Monday.

He discussed problems of putting space ships in orbit, how crewmen live on board and the exercises they use to readapt to the earth's conditions in four days.

Poindexter said the program is working on an unmanned space lab to be placed at Mars by 1976, studying further the soil conditions on the planet.

He said some think we are 1,000 years too late or 1,000 years too early to know anything about life on Mars.

The space center spokesman, who addresses high school audiences throughout the Houston area, said Americans and Russians are working on a joint Sky Lab hook up operation.

And he told Cameron Lions that previous moon missions have returned 450 pounds of moon rocks which are still 90 percent unexamined because science technics are some years away from full development for such projects.

Bill Watkins was program chairman.

LR Church To Cite 125th Anniversary

Little River Baptist Church will observe the 125th anniversary of the congregation's founding Sunday with services at 10:30 a.m. and a basket lunch at noon.

The church located at Jones Prairie was the fourth Baptist church founded in Texas and highlights of its early history include a revival in 1855 that brought 70 members into the congregation, 51 by baptism in Little River.

Sunday the 43 resident members will be joined by many of the 31 non-resident members as well as former pastors, former members and friends from surrounding communities for services at the picturesque country church, lunch and fellowship under the shady oaks on the church grounds.

Dr. Robert L. Dobson, Bible professor at Howard Payne College and a former Little River Baptist Church pastor, will be the guest speaker. Mr. Richard Jones of Rosebud will be in charge of music and the present pastor, Rev. Eddie Fugate and the congregation have planned a special program.

The Church had a meager beginning in the "wilderness" of Milam County when Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Lester, Amanda and Elijah Dobbins and William Lester met with pioneer Baptist preacher Z. N. Morrell, his wife and a servant to form the first congregation.

Rules adopted at the founding meeting included the admonition that "no member be allowed to speak more than three times upon one subject without leave of the church.

Meetings were held in Mrs. Beal's school house each Saturday and Sunday. The code that the small group of followers agreed to were strict and those guilty of breaking it were called upon to confess their sins and repent.

Following the Civil War the congregation built a church house of logs and in 1873 with the help of the Masonic Lodge of the community a new church house was completed and community cemetery established.

In the early 1890's the church experienced another dramatic growth when Dr. Scarborough of the Cameron Baptist Church, who later was elected leader of the Baptist denomination, held an evangelistic meeting in a brush arbor at Jones Prairie, Sixty-four new members were baptised in a tank near the church

The present building was completed in 1907 and by 1940 membership had reached the 200 mark.

The change from manual to machine farming that brought a drop in rural population since World War II is reflected in the decrease in membership at Little River Baptist Church.

Language Awaits Con-Con Approval

AUSTIN

Over a July Fourth holiday, Texas Constitution writers are mulling over language of the proposed instrument.

A possible mid-July wind-up of the 1974 Constitutional Convention was seen by convention leadership as delegates recessed with only language of the General Provisions Article remaining for third-reading consideration.

Delegates gave their approval on third reading to Articles dealing with The Executive, The Judiciary and Separation of Powers.

The brief, single paragraph Article on Separation of Powers provides for three separate branches of government with a prohibition against one branch usurping powers of another.

The article, in its entirety reads: "SEPARATION OF POWERS. The powers of the government of the State of Texas are divided into three distinct branches, legislative, executive and judicial. Members of one branch may not exercise any power properly attached to either of the others, except as otherwise authorized by this constitution."

Delegates moved quickly through debate during the past week on the previously controversial Judiciary Article. The article gained third reading approval with only minor floor amendments, most of them involving language clarification changes.

On separate vote delegates approved a section permitting the state limited right of appeal in criminal cases.

Under the present Constitution of 1876 state prosecutors have no right of appeal in trial of criminal cases. The proposed new section would allow the state to have right of appeal when constitutional questions are involved in a criminal case.

Earlier delegates approved on third-reading the Executive Article of the proposed new constitution complete with its new provision requiring state agencies, except educational institutions, to self-destruct every 10 years unless given new life by the Legislature.

Delegates also broadened the governor's power as commander-in-chief of the state militia.

As originally presented to the convention the governor would have been empowered to call out the militia in cases of "natural" disasters.

The word "natural" was stricken from the article to enable the governor to muster the state guard in the event of disastrous fires, explosions or other calamaties not specifically caused by nature.

The compromise leaves the highway fund intact, but also authorizes a new "petroleum products manufacturing tax" that would not be automatically dedicated to the highway fund.

Census To Require Good Farm Record

Milam farmers and ranchers should keep good records this year for the upcoming 1974 Census of Agriculture.

This is the request of the Bureau of the Census, the Federal agency that will conduct the 29th nationwide Census of Agriculture during the first part of 1975. The Bureau is part of the U. S. Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

Farmers will receive their report forms by mail early in January. They should fill them out and mail them back promptly. Having accurate and detailed records will make it easy for farmers to do this. Questions will be much like those in the last agriculture census whichcovered farming and ranching during 1969.

Questions will ask for acreage of cropland harvested; quantity and market value of major crops produced; acres irrigated and means of irrigation; acreage treated with pesticides, lime and other chemicals; acreage fertilized by kind of fertilizer--dry, liquid or gas.

Questions on livestock and poultry will cover the number of each kind on the farm as well as the number sold and the sales value. Quantities and sales value of their products will be sought.

125th ANNIVERSARY - The Little River Baptist Church and cemetery will note 125 years as Texas' fourth oldest Baptist Church Sunday. Thirty-one non-resident and 43 resident members will join in Sunday morning services and lunch. This is a shot of the church cemetery where a number of Civil War confederate soldiers are buried.

Coping Is Not Leading...

Our agrarian base is drying up as automation reaches out to every cranny, as even agri-business apparatus requires managers rather than leaders, technology more than meritocracy.

And with this shrinkage, the source for dedicated eloquent leaders beyond special interest is winnowing away.

Events lead us to agree with a Columbia University professor that Colonial founding fathers were "clearly higher caliber, both intellectually and in terms of character," than political leaders today.

Prof. Richard B. Morris in U. S. News notes these founders "did not have to push their way up through the election process that seems to have such a demoralizing effect upon a number of public officials."

The source of such calibre, men of personal achievement dedicated to popular interests before and after revolution, was largely from a 2.5 million rural population: Franklin, Washington, John Adams, Jefferson, John Jay, Hamilton, James Madison among the giants of the American Revolution.

So it is the "system" which is not working because it is too complex to allow this type of man in enough numbers to scale heights from which viable solutions could flow.

It is asking too much perhaps for "a galaxy", as the Professor calls them, to emerge in these times. Modern crunch and criticism may already have destroyed or deterred one or more of these from emerging contemporary government.

Indeed the Professor notes that the first-rate talent has gone in to science, technology or other fields.

Coping with the system is taking integrity out of government. Things are to be managed and not led, even to Watergate.

All Peron....

What's in a name?

The first female president of a country in the Western Hemisphere happens to a Peron. That is wife of the 78-year-old former president who died a day or so after Martha Estela Peron, his third wife, took the oath of office.

If her last name had been any other, Argentina would be under martial law or amidst revolution right now.

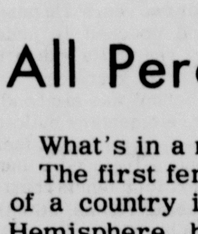
Spokesmen of the military services which avowed anew support for constitutional government made it clear such loyalty was to Peron's third wife even as it was to Eva Peron, his first.

Spokesmen said attempts at several types of government by several different parties had failed during Peron's exile.

The new Argentine president was a cabaret dancer when she met the exiled Argentine dynamo in 1956.

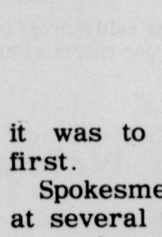
His physical dynamo failed only after his name enabled the country to avoid chaos, which yet may break out.

Mrs. Peron had been elected vice president in recent Argentine elections. It is all constitutional and all Peron.



"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP



Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes (Fla.) ... The D.C. Bicentennial Building is disgusting and an affront to this Nation and its people.

While we were in recess, the building was opened with a great deal of hoopla. The Mayor of Washington dedicated the office. A representative of the White House was there.

Apparently the officials didn't see, or ignored one of the principal features of the room: a mural painted around its ceiling. This disgusting piece of trash glorifies Karl Marx, Friedrich Engels, Joseph Stain, and Mao Tse-tung.

For good measure the President of the United States is depicted wearing a mustache and clad in the costume of a movie gangster. His daughter has an Afro hairdo and a portrait of an avowed Communist Angela Davis is thrown in for no understandable reason . . . Joe Stalin . . . is cleverly disguised with mutton chops . . .

The Bicentennial is to celebrate 200 years of a nation that was built by men and women who longed to be free. Down through the ages there have been men like Washington, Jefferson, Franklin, Lincoln, Roosevelt, and Truman who built on that dream. Women like Betsy Ross, Florence Nightingdale and Clara Barton dreamed of a land where every person could live good and productive lives . . .

Washington D.C., is not just another city. It is the capital City of the greatest nation on the face of the Earth.

The spirit of the Bicentennial is disgraced by a hideous mural from the brush of a man who apparently feels that it is clever to insult the flag that allows him to be free. His mural defames the names of the tens of thousands of men who have given their lives in the service of this Nation for the cause of freedom . . .

What is worse nothing is being done about removing this bathroom graffiti from the walls of an office that should serve as a model as America prepares to celebrate its Bicentennial . . .

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

The mayors of the major big cities in the U. S, according to an artilce I read in a Newspaper yesterday, are asking the Federal government for 18 billion dollars to help pay for mass transit systems.

Their argument is that automobiles are choking the cities, that modern subways and other mass transit systems are needed if cities are going to continue to function, and that the cost of building and operating the systems is too great for any city to bear.

Now at first thought you might ask, why should somebody living on a place like this Johnson grass farm out here have to help pay for a big city's subway system? If Boston or New York or Los Angeles people for example haven't got the ability to operate their cities, let them close them down.

Then I got to thinking further. You shut down the big cities and what's going to happen? The people will spread out and ruin the countryside. It's the last thing I'd want to see happen. It's bad enough with all the bottles and beer cans we have to contend with, but you add people too and the countryside is gone.

Up to now, by some crafty propaganda, we country people have managed to keep most of the population cooped up in big cities where everybody thought all the advantages were, and if it takes an extra tax on this Johnson grass farm to keep them from catching on and breaking out, I'm willing to pay it.

Furthermore, if us country people are on our toes we'll start a campaign to keep cities from spreading out. Look at nearly any big city and you'll see rows and rows of houses about three feet apart going up on the outskirts and extending further and further out in the country. Those houses ought to be stacked on top of each other back inside the city limits. I'm not interested in paying for a subway system that goes all over creation.

By the way, a developer came by here the other day asking if I'd be interested in selling my farm. Said it's made a good sub-division I'm waiting to see what his offer is.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Shortage To Cut Insurance Cost?

The energy crisis may bring lower auto insurance premiums, and the State Insurance Board has put off its annual rate hearing to see if that's possible.

The hearing won't take place until late September this year.

By then, the Board hopes to get statistics on accidents and insurance claims for the first quarter of 1974.

The 55 miles an hour speed limit approved in special legislative session last December did not take effect until January 20. Driving was also curtailed sharply during early months of the year because of gasoline shortages.

If statistics for the first three months show lower rates are possible, the reduction would not go into effect until a month or more after the September hearing.

Texas Department of Public Safety has been asked to provide accident report details for the Insurance Board's 40 rating territories.

An average statewide reduction of 4.3 per cent was ordered last year, and many companies have granted further "deviation" reductions below the statewide rates fixed by the regulatory agency.

CONVENTION WINDING UP — The Constitutional Convention is racing toward a conclusion, but critical decisions — perhaps the toughest of the deliberations to date — remain.

President Price Daniel Jr. is hopeful of adjournment by July 15. Before that time, 121 votes must be rallied for the final document (and separate referendum items) to be submitted to voters.

ACCIDENTS PREDICTED — Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, estimated 42 lives would be lost in July 4 holiday traffic accidents.

Speir, who declined to make Christmas-New Year period forecasts because of changing traffic conditions tied to the energy crisis, said the situation has become more stable. He said gasoline is available in most areas, and guessed this will bring additional auto movement on the highways during the mid-summer holiday.

Thirteen died in July 4 traffic last year, but the holiday period was only 30 hours long then, compared to an 102-hour period this year (with the fourth falling on Thursday). Eighty died in 1972 holiday traffic over a similar 102-hour period.

All available DPS troopers and department facilities will be used to curb unsafe and reckless drivers, Speir said.

TRAINING CENTER ESTABLISHED — Gov. Dolph Briscoe ordered establishment July 1 of a new State Employees Training Institute to upgrade the unskilled and disadvantaged for jobs in state government.

The center, to be housed in The University of Texas, Austin, Extension Service facilities, will provide "intensive, short-term remedial education and skill training for new state agency employees and will have the capability to expand training for new responsibilities."

Texas Education Agency and UT division of Extension were assigned cooperative roles.

COURTS SPEAK — The State Supreme Court will review a $200,000 damage suit against an Alpine dentist who shot to death a youth he believed to be stealing a battery from his car.

The High Court in a divided decision held an El Paso lawyer's license should be suspended three years (rather than revoked) for theft of $401 of a client's money.

A life sentence assessed a Fort Worth man in the killing of a policeman was affirmed by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

A July 25 hearing has been set in 167th district court here in a civil anti-trust suit filed by Atty. Gen. John Hill against Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI). Hill claims "coercive" tactics were used by the nation's largest dairy cooperative to get a virtual monopoly on Texas milk production.

A pre-trial conference has been scheduled in Austin's 53rd district court July 16 on Frances "Sissy" Farenthold's $2.5 million campaign finance lawsuit against Governor Briscoe.

The state settled its suit against Atlantic Richfield for $2.8 million. The case is the fourth settlement in 27 suits Hill filed against oil companies seeking fair market prices of "in kind" payments for oil and gas royalties from public school land leases.

AG OPINIONS — An appropriations bill provision that U.S. citizenship or application for naturalization is a requirement for all state employment is unconstitutional, Attorney General Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

• Attorneys fees against delinquent taxpayers are calculated on the basis of the amount sued for by taxing entities represented by county or district attorney.

• A district court may exercise probationary powers whether or not it has employed a probation officer to assist it. A probation clerk may perform some of the officer's duties directly under court supervision.

• A town whose incorporation has been declared void in a court order is not entitled to receive city sales taxes collected for it by the comptroller.

• The Wharton County court of domestic relations has jurisdiction in civil cases where the matter in controversy is at least $200 but not more than $5,000.

SHORT SNORTS

Site of the first of four artificial reefs (to be constructed of surplus Liberty ships) has been approved in the Galveston-Freeport area.

E. L. Galyean of Austin is new acting executive secretary of the 152,000-member Texas State Teachers Association, succeeding L. P. Sturgeon who retired June 30.

Grants totalling $7.2 million have been approved for improvement of law enforcement and criminal justice.

Texas Water Rights Commission dissolved 18 water districts.

The Governor's Committee on Aging approved $658,000 in grants and ratified earlier action taken at meetings held without adequate notice last December and March.

House and Senate committees are holding hearings to assess possible solutions for the problem of soaring utility rates and shortages in some Central and South Texas cities.

The Constitutional Convention is considering publishing a 32-page tabloid-newspaper-sized copy of its proposals to be mailed to all voters at an estimated cost of nearly $500,000.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Tainted" Car

Suppose you lend your car to a friend, who uses it to carry narcotics. If he is caught, could your car be confiscated—even though you were unaware of your friend's illicit intentions?

State laws on narcotics often do say exactly that. The car itself is considered tainted by its misuse, and is therefore subject to seizure.

From time to time, a luckless car owner will put up a fight in court. He will argue that he should not be penalized for someone else's transgression.

But most courts have upheld the confiscation of the car. Two reasons are commonly given:

1) that this will teach car owners to be more careful about lending their cars to untrustworthy friends; and,

2) that in fighting the drug problem, the state should not have the difficult task of proving the car owner's complicity.

As one judge put it:

"The traffic in narcotics is so great an evil as to justify the drastic penalty of confiscation. The public interest outweighs the loss suffered by the innocent car owner."

Usually, however, an automobile can be confiscated only if it was "caught in the act." Thus, your car could not be taken away merely because the authorities find that someone had used it unlawfully the day before yesterday.

Furthermore, you are in a stronger position if the car was not just borrowed but was taken without your consent.

Sedam Heads Texas Press Group

Upon his election as president of the Texas Press Association, Glenn Sedam, Publisher of the Bay City Daily Tribune, said that he feels "criticism of the Press today is only because the press has been doing a good job."

He added that any faction doing a good job is up for criticism . . . "when the public quits fussing, it is time to really start worrying."

Sedam, a tall, dignified and energetic native of Monogahela, Pa., has been publisher of the Bay City Daily Tribune since 1958.

He began his newspaper career in the advertising department of the Monogahela Daily Herald in 1936, advancing to its ad director the next year.

He was in the advertising department of the McKeesport (Pa.) Daily News and served as ad director of both the Clarksburg (W. Va.) Exponent-Telegram and the Gadsden (Ala.) Times. He also was business manager of the latter for five years before joining the sales staff of Southern Newspapers.

While with Southern Newspapers, he purchased the Bay City Daily Tribune and moved to the Texas Gulf Coast to settle down to becoming a Texan.

Sedam is a graduate of the Deuquesne (Pa.) University's School of Advertising and Journalism.

Advertising is his forte, and he is noted for publishing special sections of the Tribune. He is well known in Texas for his promotional projects on both his newspaper and in his community.

GLENN SEDAM

Regarding his upcoming term as president of the Texas Press Association, he said he "looks for a year in which we may lead the members of the press associaton toward greater promotional efforts in alerting their community as to the significant part they play in the business community, as well as the dissemination of news."

During the term, 1974-75, that Sedam heads the powerful association of 600 Texas newspapers, he also will direct the activities of the Gulf Coast Press Association. This marks the first time in history a TPA president has served concurrently as president of one of the state's regional organizations.

Sedam is a nationally-known lay leader of the Christian Church, having served as president of the National Christian Men's Fellowship and as a member of the select National Commission for the Christian Church, a six-man board of the church at a national level. He also has been Texas state president of the Men's Fellowship and was formerly a lay minister. He has served in almost every capacity on a local, regional and state level of the Christian Church. Currently he heads the board of Elders in Bay City.

In addition, he helped to organize the Bay City Day Care Center, won the Chamber of Commerce President's Award for membership in 1971 and has been president of the Retarded Children's Council in Bay City.

He is active in efforts of the United Fund and Red Cross emergency relief groups, and currently serves on the Matagorda County Industrial Foundation. This year he received a leadership citation from the Boy Scouts.

Three years ago, he was listed in Who's Who in the Southwest; and, subsequently, was nominated for listings in Who's Who in America.

An enthusiastic tennis player, Sedam recently undertook as an additional "hobby" the remodeling of his home, serving as his own contractor.

Sedam is married to the former Dorothy Gillingham, a high school sweetheart in Pennsylvania. They are parents of Glenn Jr., who resides in Great Falls, Virginia; Tommy, of Bay City; Mrs. Linda McCulloch, Williamsport, Pa.; and Mrs. Cindy Ganczak, Springfield, Ill. He has seven grandchildren.

FIRST RAILROAD

The first railroad in the United States was built in 1830 from Charleston to Hamburg, South Carolina. The first passenger train, "The Best Friend," made its initial trip in 1831. Newspapers reported: "The passengers flew on wings of the wind, annihilating space and leaving all the world behind at the fantastic speed of 15 mph."

A fountain in Sicily was credited with being able to distinguish truth from lies. Writings were thrown into it, and the truth floated, lies sank.

English List Child Care Rules

By Peter Mosley

LONDON

Reuter -- British parents have been presented with 10 commandments for good child care, coupled with a special note of caution about babies: they're smelly, wet and cry a lot.

The latest guide to good parenthood comes from one of Britain's leading authorities, Dr. Mia Kellner Pringle, educational psychologists and director of the National Children's Bureau.

In a book, "The Needs of Children," which was commissioned by the British government as a baseline document for its health and social security department, she suggests the following commandments.

"1. Give continuous, consistent, loving care -- it's as essential for the mind's health as food is for the body.

"2. Give generously of your time and understanding -- playing and reading to your child matters more than a tidy, smooth-running home.

"3. Provide new experiences and bathe your child in language from birth onwards -- they enrich his growing mind.

"4. Encourage him to play in every way both by himself and with other children -- exploring, imitating, constructing, pretending and creating.

"5. Give him ever-increasing responsibility -- like all his skills, it needs child is unique -- so suitable handling for one may not be suitable for another.

"8. Make the way you show disapproval fit your child's temperament, age and understanding.

"9. Never threaten that you will stop loving him or give him away: You may reject his behaviour but never suggest that you might reject him.

"10. Do not expect gratitude your child did not ask to be born -- the choice was yours."

On that last point, Austrian-born Dr. Pringle believes it is high time to abandon the over-romanticized picture of motherhood and come clean with the truth about babies.

De-glamorizing them and showing them as they are -- "Sometimes fretful and demanding, often wet, smelly, crying at night and unreasonable" -- will not deter those who truly want to care for children, she says.

Harvesting and Planting... Baling Going Well... Cattle Sales Drop... Milk Production Up... Turkey Hatches Down

HARVESTING and Planting of several crops in this big State are going on at the same time. The first bale of cotton of Texas' No. 1 crop was ginned June 10, while cotton planting was going on on the Low and High Plains. Crispin Gamez, who had the first bale in 1971 and 1972, brought the first bale to Pharr, in the Rio Grande Valley. Most of the 1974 cotton crop has been planted but there is some replanting of cotton hailed out on the Low and High Plains. Sorghum crops are in about the same situation as cotton, with harvesting underway in the Valley and South Texas and some replanting going on on the Plains where hail and sand damaged some crops. A lot of rice is heading out, and combining may begin any day now. Most of the peanut and soybean crops are planted over the State but some planting remains to be done.

HAY BALING is underway over much of the State, especially in East Texas where rains have been accommodating. Prospects are good in some areas for third and fourth cuttings. Baling wire and twine shortages and/or prices have been a handicap, running costs of baling higher than they have been in years. Prices on baling wire and twine are about double what they were last year. Ranges, for the most part, are in good condition, except on areas of the Trans-Pecos, Southern High Plains and Edwards Plateau where rain has not been adequate. Highest temperature reported in the State so far was 106 degrees in Wichita Falls June 16.

SALE OF CATTLE and calves at auction rings showed a sharp drop during the month of May, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. There were 362,000 head of cattle and calves sold, which was 51 per cent below a year ago and 18 per cent below April sales. The 40,000 hogs sold in May was two per cent below a year ago and seven per cent below the previous month. Sheep sales at auction rings numbered 145,000 head, 17 per cent below a year ago but 19 per cent more than a month earlier. During May, 297,337 head of cattle and calves were shipped out of Texas to other States, and 102,202 were shipped into Texas, according to health certificate tabulations. A year ago, 417,786 head were shipped out of Texas and 188,508 head were shipped into Texas. Sheep and lambs shipped to other States totaled 120,045 head, a drop of 37 per cent from a year ago.

MILK PRODUCTION in Texas was up slightly during May, reaching an estimated 301 million pounds. That's one per cent above May, 1973 and a little more than in April. Production per cow was 860 pounds during May, which is 20 pounds more than in May, 1973. All wholesale milk sold for an estimated $9.90 per hundred pounds... Texas egg production was down during May, dropping 12 per cent from the same time last year, to 200 million eggs. That is one per cent more than for April, 1974. There were 10.4 million layers on hand in May, 10 per cent below May, 1973.

TURKEY POULTS hatched in Texas during the week ending June 15 totaled 217,000, which was 34 per cent below a year ago and nine per cent below the previous week. And there were 31,000 eggs set for heavy turkey breed production, a drop of 25 per cent from last year. Texas does not raise nearly as many light breed turkeys. There were 15,000 light weights hatched in the week ending June 15, compared with 3,000 a year ago and 19,000 the previous week.

Pond Creek To Study Directive

Pond Creek Watershed Authority directors met Tuesday night in Rosebud to review a directive for election of three directors.

The Texas Waters Rights Commission directed the Pond Creek authority to hold an election or dissolve.

Tom Hickerson, secretary of Pond Creek Authority, said that no election was held last January on advice of counsel. It was based on the fact that no activity was going on in the Watershed without any federal funds for building and obtaining easements.

Hickerson said the Authority was going to schedule an election "likely would be held as soon as possible" to satisfy the law.

Hickerson said "we checked with the Soil Conservation Service in Temple about not holding an election and reasons why," and "we were told that this was not out of the ordinary."

Election of three directors is mandatory every year on the second Tuesday in January. The Texas Water Rights Commission said such an election is not optional.

Pond Creek Watershed plans include building flood water retarding dams, nine grade stabilization structures, planned lakes covering from 15 to 80 acres.

Hickerson said land easements are going slowly and that one landowner is going to court to attempt revocation of an easement he already signed.

Livestock Clinics Set

Texas livestock producers will have an opportunity to participate in four additional clinics on artificial insemination (AI) and pregnancy determination during the coming months.

The clinics, each four days in length, are a joint effort of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Burtiss Breeding Service. Thirteen similar clinics involving the American Breeders Service were announced earlier in the year.

The clinics are designed to provide highly technical field training in AI and pregnancy testing in addition to detailed information on managing the breeding herd, according to John R. Beverly, animal reproduction specialist for the Extension Service. Discussion will cover nutrition, disease prevention, selection and records.

The clinic schedule is as follows: Aug. 12-16, San Angelo; Sept. 9-13, Mercedes; Sept. 23-27, Bryan; and Nov. 11-15, Midland.

In addition to Beverly, Extension livestock specialists providing training at the clinics will include Dr. Jerry J. Cowley, Weslaco; Dr. Leroy Hoermann, Uvalde; and Dr. Tom Woodward, San Angelo.

Rep. Poage Introduces Loan Bill

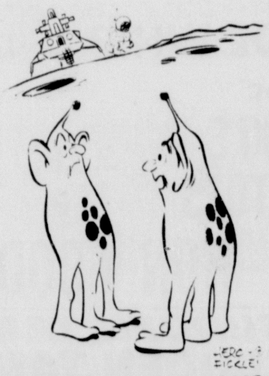
WASHINGTON

Chairman, W. R. (Bob) Poage, of the House Committee on Agriculture has introduced an emergency loan bill designed to bring swift relief to farmers and stockmen who have been hard hit financially by the recent sharp decline in cattle, hog and poultry prices.

Acting after a three-day public hearing ended, during which government officials as well as spokesmen for livestock and poultry producers throughout the nation testified that meat surpluses have piled up while prices plunged to levels of two decades ago, Congressman Poage introduced legislation similar to a measure pending in the Senate. It would authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to guarantee loans made by private lending institutions where borrowers otherwise would be unable to obtain such credit.

The Livestock and Grains Subcommittee, which already had scheduled a hearing June 25 and 26 on other bills on the emergency credit problem, also will have the Poage bill under consideration. The full Committee is scheduled to meet June 27 to act on any bill approved by the Subcommittee.

"Speed is of the essence in consideration of legislation," commented Chairman Poage. "Our hearings brought out forcefully what we had throughout the nation are facing bankruptcy. They are being forced to sell at far below their cost of production."



"WE WANT TO MAKE A GOOD IMPRESSION - SO PUT YOUR BEST FOOT FORWARD"

Vaculin Is First For Natl. Award

Jimmy Vaculin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Vaculin has been selected first place winner in the National Proficiency Award program. The cash and award in the Placement in Agricultural Production will be presented at the 46th annual state FFA convention, July 9 through 12 in San Antonio.

Jimmy will represent the Texas FFA Association in the National FFA competition, competing against 51 other states and nations.

He is employed as an agricultural co-op student at Cameron Seed Co. where owner Walter Lester has instructed and assisted two other state winners of the past: Bobby Yates, presently a vocational agricultural teacher at Elgin, and Richard Vaculin, a senior in vocational agricultural education at Sam Houston State University.

A&M Uses 3-Year Grant For Insect-Proof Cotton

COLLEGE STATION

Scientists with the Texas Agricultureal Experiment Station will share in a continuing three-year grant from the Rockefeller Foundation for research to develop cotton varieties that are resistant to insect attack.

Dr. Perry L. Adkisson, researcher and head of Texas A&M University's Entomology Department, is coordinator for the cooperative project that also involves universities in two other cotton producing states and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Cooperating in the research are scientists with Mississippi State University, the University of California at Davis, and the Agricultural Research Service.

HALF MILLION PROJECT

Adkisson said the three-year grant is for $500,000, of which $97,000 annually will come to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the USDA's Entomology Research Center at Brownsville to continue cotton investigation.

Experiment Station scientists of A&M involved in the project include Dr. G. A. Niles of the Soil and Crop Sciences Department, Dr. Luther Bird of the Plant Sciences Department, and J. K. Walker, Jr., of the Entomology Department, Cooperating at Brownsville are Dr. M. J. Lukefahr and Dr. R. H. Dilday.

"Researchers from Texas A&M are placing emphasis on cotton fleahopper and boll weevil resistant types of cotton, along with short season cottons that may outrun insect attacks. Additionally, Dr. Bird is working to incorporate plant disease resistance into the new insect resistant types," Adkisson said.

Niles also is working with short season types and fleahopper and boll weevil resistant cottons, while Walker is conducting an entomological evaluation of these types, Adkisson emphasized.

HIGH GOSSYPOL TYPES

USDA researchers are working on cottons resistant to bollworms and tobacco budworm, with particular emphasis on high gossypol types, the project director added.

"Sources of resistance in cotton to boll weevil, budworm and bollworm, fealhopper and lygus have been discovered in the research program. One commercial variety has already been released through the project in Mississippi that has a moderate level of resistance to lygus, fleahopper, bollowrm and the budworm," Adkisson noted.

"While the Mississippi variety is the first commercial insect resistant cotton ever to be released, we expect to have a continuing flow of these types of cotton. Bird and the A&M team will seek to incorporate the insect resistant characteristics into improved TAM COT lines," Adkinson said.

Supercharge your favorite worm killer with *GUTHION insecticide and you've got a combination that delivers unmatched control of all major cotton insects.

GUTHION adds its own potency against bollworms to give you a thorough initial cleanup of these insects, as well as boll weevils, plant bugs, fleahoppers and aphids.

Even more important, GUTHION has residual activity that continues to control weevils, plant bugs and sucking insects while beneficial insects reestablish dominance. This extra control from GUTHION and nature's helpers can mean fewer sprays and real savings in insecticide costs.

So, insist that combination insecticides used on your cotton contain GUTHION, the supercharger that adds potency to the initial cleanout, and residual control that helps you grow better cotton, and more of it—and save money at the same time!

If handy, pre-mixed combinations of GUTHION are not available in your area, GUTHION can be tank-mixed with certain insecticides as it is applied.

Combinations containing GUTHION also control a wide range of insects that can cut soybean yields, too.

Expanded Coverage For Vets

The Veterans Administration is increasing and extending insurance coverage for 6.8 million veterans, servicemen and ready reservists under the new Veterans Insurance Act enacted May 24.

A major provision of the law, according to Jack Coker, Waco VA Regional Office Dorector, is an automatic increase in maximum coverage from $15,000 to $20,000 for 2.4 million servicemen on active duty.

Servicemen and ready reservists are insured automatically under Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) unless they decline the additional coverage in writing. They may elect to be insure for $5,000, $10,000, $15,000 or not at all, it was noted.

Another provision established, effective August 1, a five-year, nonrenewable Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI) which would provide coverage in amounts of $5,000, $10,000, $15,000 and $20,000. Servicement leaving active duty could convert their SGLI to VGLI without medical examination.

Also eligible for VGLI are 2.7 million veterans whose SGLI terminated less than four yars ago. This group must apply within one year of the effective date of the VGLI program, Coker said.

A liberty bell and lilies. Both symbols of freedom.

Nearly two hundred years ago, a bell proclaimed our release from political domination. The Founding Fathers gave us our liberty, and today we reap the benefits: a man can speak his mind without fear. This is freedom.

The lilies represent another kind of freedom. Synonymous with Easter, they are symbols of the greatest freedom of all, the freedom from death.

With its promise of everlasting life, with its hope for an eternal spring, the Christian message today rings across the land with ever increasing clarity.

Renew your own freedom. Go to church.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

In just a few weeks, we can expect another Texas hurricane season, since historically most of our big storms have occurred from August to October. And we've just come through our traditional spring tornado months.

As Texans, we are familiar with natural disasters and the misery they can bring because we have suffered through some of the worst: the Great Galveston Storm of 1900, Hurrican Carla and Beulah, and the Lubbock Tornado are just a few.

Often the worst aspect of a disaster is the aftermath when victims face the heartbreak of cleaning up and the strenous task of rebuilding.

It is often at this point, too, that consumer fraud becomes another problem to be faced by residents trying to pick up the pieces.

At a time when many are confused, tired, and vulnerable, it is unfortunate but true that unscrupulous persons may move in to take advantage of the situation.

Many consumer decisions and transactions are necessary to get back to normal after a diseaster. And most will require the expenditure of large amounts of cash or heavy use of credit.

Attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division warn that consumers who find themselves in such a situation use extreme caution before making major purchases or home repairs.

Most businessmen and repairmen are honest, reliable and trustworthy, and in such trying circumstances will attempt to be as fair as possible with consumers.

But many times the reports of a disaster will bring an influx of itinerant salesmen and repairmen -- many from out-of-state -- who are determined to make their fortune at the expense of others.

These "hit and run" operators who sell goods and services door-to-door may never deliver what they promise but, instead, will drive off to new territory with a consumer's money or a contract that they may immediately sell to a finance company.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys recommend that you take a few precautions that may save the money and anguish associated with disaster frauds.

- Do not pay in advance for materials or repairs
- Remember that high pressure and scare tactics are often the mark of a phony deal
- Make sure that a contractor or salesman has a permanent place of business, preferably in your area.
- Get at least three estimates before selecting a contractor for any construction or repair work.
- Insist that all estimates include a starting and completion date, description of the work to be performed and the type of materials to be used, total cost, guarantees provided, and method of payment (lump sum upon completion, installment, etc.)
- When you have selected a contractor, ask for a written contract based on his estimate. Make sure before signing that you understand all parts, and there are no blanks, and that the contractor himself has signed first.

Remember that both Texas and federal laws allow you to cancel any door-to-door sale for $25 or more if you notify the seller of your intention within three days.

And remember, too, that in cases of disaster many state and federal agencies stand ready to assist victims. If you have a question about disaster - related problems, they can help. For information about consumer protection at such times, consult our attorney, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

2 Amendments Aid Tax Problems, Kubiak Says

The Constitutional Convention adopted two very significant amendments this week which will get right at the heart of the tax proglems of Texas, according to Rep. Dan Kubiak, of Rockdale.

The single most important change we made came as we considered the Finance Article. This amendment offered by Delegate Bob Davis of Irving, will greatly ease Texans' tax burden and could conceivably result in a three to four cent reduction in gasoline taxes we pay.

The Davis amendment -- which I fully supported -- will allow future legislatures to levy a tax on petroleum products when they leave the gate of the refinery.

The impact of this change can be understood easily when you consider that about 70 per cent of all of the oil and gas produced in those refiners goes out of the state. Texas furnishes the rest of the nation some 35 percent of all of its petroleum products. So once we have the capability which this amendment now gives us to tax those products which go to other states, the whole financial picture will be a little rosier.

"Obivously you and I will be better off because of this important change but the Convetion made a similarly important move by adopting an amendment sponsored by Delegate Jim Nugent of Kerrville, Rep. Kubiak said.

Nugent's amendment will bring about some justice and remove the taxing inequities concerning homesteads.

"I believe strongly these were necessary changes and was glad to give both of these my full support," he continued.

"I also supported the three articles which the Convention adopted on third, or final, reading. These were the Executive Article, Finance Article and the Judicial Article," he emphasized.

Fall Proof This Spring

Pointing out that falls rank highest among the single causes of accidents in the home, The Texas Safety Association suggests that spring cleaning time is a good opportunity to "fall proof" the home.

The safety group warns against improvising with a makeshift stool when reaching for high places. Stay with a sturdy step ladder and keep it in good repair.

Check to be sure throw rugs are skid proof. Don't allow carpet and linoleum edges to become loose, frayed or curled. Keep floors and steps in good repair and clear of toys, clothing or anything that could cause a fall.

Stairways, hallways and outdoor walkways should be kept well lighted and free from clutter.

OVERPLAN OVERKILL

A youngster won't get any practice spending money and using judgment if every cent of an allowance is planned in advance, Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Taylor To Hold Two Street Dances

Two big street dances will highlight the Taylor Independence Festival as part of the activities involved by the Taylor Jaycees for the gala three day celebration.

On Wednesday, July 3rd starting at 8:30 p.m. on West Third street the VELVETS from San Antonio will furnish the music.

Darrell McCall will provide the music for the dance at the same location beginning at 9 p.m. Saturday, July 6th. McCall is enjoying his smash hit, "There's Still a Lot of Love in San Antone" now in the top of the County and Western Music charts. He has been rated as one of the top ten C&W singers in the nation.

Ice cold beverages will also be available at both of these street dances. TIF Days will feature entertainment for the entire family with hundreds of events during the three day observance.

Bigbee Qualifies For 4-H Horse Show Finals

Bill Bigbee of Sugarland grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bigbee of Cameron accumulated sufficient points at Angelton in the finals of District 11, composed of 14 southeast Texas counties to represent Fort Bend County in state finals. This is the third straight year Bill has qualified for the state. He won the National Championship in break-away calf roping in Dallas in 1972. The State Championship for judged tie-down calf roping at Odessa in 1973.

State 4-H Horse show finals to be held in Dallas on July 31, through August 2 along with the annual national youth horse show congress.

Bill is entered in judged reining patterns, breakaway and tie down calf roping this year at state.

Bill uses only one "can do" registered quarter horse for all events; calf roping, pole bending, beining, barrel racing, stake racing, etc.

This well trained (athlete) horse actually likes to win. After pacing the speed of a calf, tracing him in the right position, he is calm when you bell collar the calf, but is slightly unruly if you miss. As if to say, "I did my part right, what's wrong with you

Both Bill and Tom Bigbee are to participate in all the calf roping events at the national youth horse show congress, competing with the best from other states.

CYO Team In Softball Playoffs

Cameron's Boys C. Y. O. softball team captured the district title defeating the Granger CYO in a 2 out of 3 series.

The local team is scheduled for final playoffs in Bryan July 7 and 14. Their wins over Granger were with scores of 11 to 5 and 19 to 6.

Team members are Greg Sheguit, Michael Trdy, Daniel Richardson, Gery Hornung, Kenneth Dusek Gary Trdy, Joseph Jistel, Bruce Zarosky, Patrick Sheguit and Joseph Trdy.

Area Netters Join Field In Record Waco Turnout

A doubles team of Jo Middleton and Dianne Pyle will be among more than 800 players in first round play of the Waco Open Tennis Tournament July 4-7.

The Milam area women's doubles crown for which they were runnersup in the 1973 Waco Open. Mrs. Pyle is entered in at least one other doubles event.

Frank Luecke, of Cameron, is entered in men's singles, men's 35 singles and doubles in the huge field, now designated one of the five major tournaments in Texas. Texas Tennis Association now ranks Waco with Houston, Dallas, Abilene and San Antonio Opens.

It will be a 1400 - event tournament played on about 40 courts in Waco, including all high school courts, Baylor University, McLennan Community College, Lions Park and the new T-Bar-M courts as well as center court play at Sul Ross Tennis Center.

"This is the biggest Open ever in Waco," according to Charlie McCleary, director of Sul Ross Tennis Center. The First Waco Open was in the 1920's.

A designated tournament requires that top ranked players play in at least two of the major events, McCleary said. This has more than doubled entries over last year.

More than 800 returned entries of a 2,500 mailing, approximately the number which enters the Texas sectionals each year. Robert Trogola, of Mary Hardin-Baylor, and now instructing at Yoe Courts in Cameron Monday and Tuesdays, won the 1973 Texas Sectionals in Corpus Christi.

Waco Tennis Association, which numbers almost 300 players of all ages, is running the tournament. Mrs. Nancy Smith of Waco, is tournament chairman. Micky Holmes is WTA president.

Most of last year's champions and runnersup, like the Pyle-Middleton doubles team, are returning. But entries from Texas, Mexico and eight other states assure the calibre of play will be high.

Play begins 8 a.m. July 4 and continues throughout the city until 10 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Adult competition will end in the finals Sunday afternoon at Sul Ross Tennis Center.

TPW Will Enforce Water Safety Laws

BEAUMONT

Unwittingly or not, many recreational boaters are violating the law by failing to carry the prescribed personal flotation devices (PFD's), according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department law enforcement officials.

"Although new PFD requirements went into effect October 1, 1973, it appears that many boaters failed to get the word," said officials.

"Game wardens will vigorously enforce all water safety laws in an effort to reduce the number of drownings in Texas. Even before the boating season got into full swing, some 165 citations were issued during April for failure to have the proper number of PFD's on board."

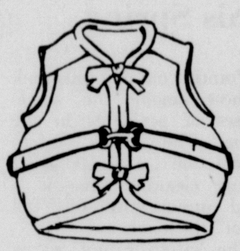
Length of the boat determines what types of personal flotation devices are required, with the exception that children 12 years of age and under must wear a life perserver while aboard any boat less than 26 feet long while the vessel is underway.

PFD's fall into three catagories: Types I, II, III and IV. Types I, II and III are wearable and Type IV is a throwable device such as the familiar bouyant cushion.

On boats less than 16 feet long, any type of U. S. Coast Guard - approved PFD may be used, either wearable or throwable, as long as there is one PFD for each occupant.

On boats 16 feet and longer, there must be a Type I, II or III PFD on board for each occupant. In addition to the wearable PFD's, one Type IV must be on board to cope with emergencies such as falls overboard.

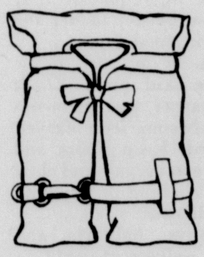
The throwable device does not have to have a line attached.



TYPE I - A Type I PFD is an approved device designed to turn an unconscious person in the water from a face downward position to a vertical or slightly backward position, and to have more than 20 pounds of buoyancy. Recommended for offshore cruising.

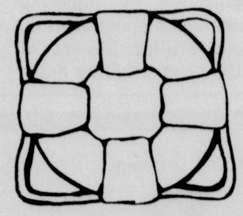
TYPE II - A Type II PFD is an approved device designed to turn an unconscious person in the water from a face downward position to a vertical or slightly backward position and to have at least 15.5 pounds of buoyancy. Recommended for closer, inshore cruising.

Type III

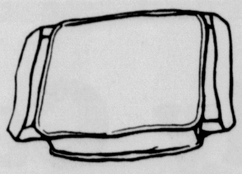


Type II

TYPE III - A Type III PFD is an approved device designed to keep a conscious person in a vertical or slightly backward position and to have at least 15.5 pounds of buoyancy. While having the same buoyancy as Type II, the Type III has a lesser turning ability to allow for a comfortable design for water activities such as water skiing. Recommended for in-water sports, or on lakes, impoundments, and close inshore operation.



Type IV



TYPE IV - A Type IV PFD is an approved device designed to be thrown to a person in the water and not worn. It is designed to have at least 16.5 pounds of buoyancy. Acceptable for boats less than 16 feet and canoes and kayaks and as a throwable device for boats 16 feet and over in length.

SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED!

The next time you buy bacon take a good look at the package. It should be a new style which gives you a better view of the bacon.

Many of you have commented that you weren't able to tell the lean-to-fat ratio of the bacon slices in the old style package before purchase, so we have changed our package design. With the new style package, you can see enough of the strip to help you select the quality you want.

The new windowed packages will show at least 70% of the length of a representative strip of bacon and the window will be a minimum of 1½" wide. We hope you like it.

Bacon is a good-anytime food and adds flavor and texture to many other foods. Turn plain hamburger into a gourmet treat by wrapping a strip of bacon around the patty before grilling. Here's one of my favorite recipes:

DELUXE STEAKETTES

1 lb. ground beef	1 tbsp. chopped onion
½ tsp. salt	1 tbsp. chopped parsley
½ tsp. pepper	4 strips bacon
½ tsp. Ac'cent

Mix all ingredients except bacon and form into four patties. Wrap a strip of bacon around each patty. Secure with toothpicks. Broil or grill about 7 minutes for each side or until the patty reaches desired doneness. Serve with a baked potato, green tossed salad, hot bread and a beverage for a satisfying meal. Serves four.
